

LOUISE ROGERS.

RAMON D. GARGIN, JR.

MORTON BILLUPS.

Three charming members of Church Hill juvenile society who took prominent parts in the tableaux presented Friday evening in Central Y. M. C. A. Hall at the performance of "Enoch Arden."

SOCIETY.

Both Mr. Valentine and Mr. de Tarnowski, his assistant, are so courteous and so ready to receive visitors and to call their attention to the delightful things that they have to display, that the pleasure of looking at the splendid figures of Jefferson Davis, Robert E. Lee and others, that are nearing completion, great as it is, is much enhanced by the pleasure of meeting and talking to these charming artist-hosts.

Mr. Valentine has a double studio—one in which the work is going actively forward from inception to completion; the other, where his lovely groups, "Andromache and Astyanax" and "The Blind Girl," enthrall the eye and rivet the attention of every one who enters the room. Work in maturer stages is also seen here, and it is here that Mr. Valentine has his register, containing the hundreds of autographs of famous people who, since the opening of the studio, have been its visitors.

In the working studio, amid many other studies, the bust of "Uncle Henry," the old coachman, who during years officiated in that capacity for the Valentine family, stands prominently out. A lovely head, done by Mr. Tarnowski, of his little two-year-old son, smiles up in the face of the visitor.

One tears oneself away from such surroundings with difficulty. Outside, in the yard around the studio building, Mr. Valentine's pomegranate is beginning to show signs of budding, and the tender green of leafage is fringing a willow near the wall, the original slip from which it was taken at Mount Vernon having been transplanted there from Napoleon's grave in St. Helena.

The figure of Jefferson Davis will be unveiled in June of 1907 by the Davis Monument Association. The figure of General Lee has been ordered by the State; that of Mr. Duke will be placed in Durham, North Carolina. Mr. Valentine's statue of General Hugh Mercer is soon to be unveiled in Fredericksburg, Va., with imposing ceremonies.

Class Recital.

Miss Malen Burnett's class met on Saturday at her studio, No. 203 East Franklin Street, for their March recital. Those taking part were: Misses Alice and Sadie Marcus, Bessie Straus, Frances Lovelace, Agnes May, Bessie Ryland and Adrian Blendheim. During the serving of refreshments, (Miss Burnett played several selections by Chopin.

Captain Cunningham's Concert.
Captain Frank W. Cunningham has undertaken a concert to be given April 5th in the lecture room of the Third Presbyterian Church, Twenty-sixth and Broad Streets. Captain Cunningham is one of the best known musicians in the State, and none is more popular. He will have the most cordial support from other talented music people of the city and a programme of uncommon merit and attractiveness is being arranged. The proceeds of the entertainment will be donated to the uses of the church. The Ladies' Aid Society secured the services of Captain Cunningham.

Alumnae Reception.

The Alumnae Association of the Woman's College was "at home" to its friends Saturday afternoon from four to six o'clock, in the college parlors. A charming musical programme was rendered by Mrs. C. T. Brangle, Miss Belle Willingham, Miss Mary Pitts, with Miss Nora Willis and Miss Evelyn Martin as accompanists.

Miss Ingram, who is a January graduate of the State Normal School at Farmville, Va., has recently accepted a position to teach Latin and mathematics in the Charlottesville High School.

Miss Ingram is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Ingram, of South Boston, Va., and graduated with distinction at the Normal School, being unanimously chosen by her class to deliver the valedictory at the commencement exercises. She was also the capable president of the Argus Literary Society, where her knowledge of parliamentary laws and her fondness for literature were made manifest.

Miss Ingram was a frequent contributor to the "Guldon," the school magazine, and enters upon her duties with the highest commendations of the faculty of the Normal School and her fellow-students.

Ald Society secured the services of Captain Cunningham.

GREEN BAL SCHOOLS.

Consolidation of Schools and Hauling Scholars to Be Tried.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
GREEN BAY, Va., March 17.—The Public schools in this District, will close within the next week or two, a big improvement has been noticed in all of the schools regarding attendance, etc., and it is the intention of the school Board, to erect a handsome and much larger school building near the village by the fall months, and have a consolidated school, putting three or four schools in one and having covered wagons to haul the scholars from a distance, to and from the school each day. Supt. Eggleston first suggested this arrangement here, and the board did not deem it best at the time to put same to a test and see how it would do, but since the District is now in a much better condition financially it is to be given a trial.
